2. Citizenship

What does citizenship mean?
A citizen is a person who is a legally recognized member of a country or region. All of you are, for example, citizens of India.

How do citizens participate?

• In a democracy, citizens usually participate by voting in elections to elect leaders to represent them.
• Some citizens may also decide to stand for elections and become a representative in order to take decisions on behalf of other citizens.
• In addition, citizens also participate by taking part in debates and discussions and in the decision-making process. This involves even criticising the government when required.
• If you are a citizen of a country, you are entitled to several rights within that country. At the same time, you are also required to fulfill several duties. Let’s understand this in more detail.

Rights and duties-

• Rights are essential for protecting citizens against the arbitrary exercise of power by the government.
• Most Constitutions of democratic countries guarantee their citizens a set of these essential, or fundamental, rights. The Indian Constitution too guarantees all Indians a set of Fundamental Rights.
• In addition to rights, citizens also have certain duties. A duty is something that someone is expected to do. Rights only have meaning if citizens do their duties and help in running the country better.

The Indian Constitution guarantees all Indian citizens six broad Fundamental Rights.

These rights are:

1. Right to Equality
2. Right to Freedom
3. Right against Exploitation
4. Right to Freedom of Religion
5. Cultural and Educational Rights
6. Right to Constitutional Remedies

It is also important to understand the following terms:

Discrimination: treating a person or particular group of people differently, especially in a bad way, because of their skin colour, gender, religion, language, etc.

Untouchability: a form of discrimination where some people are kept at a distance from others and are denied equality because they are considered to be impure and dirty.

Exploitation: treating someone unfairly in order to benefit from their work.

Human trafficking: buying and selling of human beings, usually by using force.

Activity: Conduct a slogan competition and post on your twitter handle #BSGResponsibleCitizens

Introduce students to the Fundamental Rights enshrined in the Constitution and help internalize their meaning through an activity.
4. Understanding your Duties

This section talks about the importance of citizens fulfilling their duties. It aims to emphasize that rights and duties are two sides of the same coin.

Divide into groups and ask each group to have a group discussion over the duty written on their card and think of reasons why that duty is important?

The cards read as below:
1. Voting in all elections when eligible.
2. Engaging constructively with the local government officials, both elected and administrative, in addressing civic issues.
3. Segregating waste, not littering.
4. Respecting and obeying traffic rules.
5. Conserving resources such as water, power in order to conserve and nurture the environment.
6. Being responsible in consumption habits, again to conserve the environment.

De-brief

Ask each group to share their thoughts with the broader class.
Conclude by saying that a responsible and active citizen is someone who properly fulfills their civic duties/ responsibilities.
They are actively involved in the community and work for the betterment of their fellow citizens.
